

Diary

telephone 01308 455904

Local author's latest release

EX-BEAMINSTER boy Adam Jones spent the first 20 years of his life here before moving westwards but he still thought of his local paper when publishing his latest work of fiction.

It's the third in his series about a fictional town, Little Whippendon, where sadly for the inhabitants werewolves and vampires have a way of popping up.

The Good, the Bad and the Werewolf has just been published and is now out on Amazon and Kindle. Adam has been writing stories for most of his life but only began publishing them a year ago.

He is a published academic and the author of the Little Whippendon series of the self-published novellas. When he isn't writing he says he enjoys cycling very slowly and discordant guitar playing. Paperback Price £6.99 and Kindle £1.99.

Better suggestions